co-owner

winemaker

Growing up in Northern California to a French mother and Francophile father, I enjoyed the occasional sips of great French wines.

Under the tutelage of Luisa and Dick Ponzi, I learned that great wine come from great grapes; gentle handling and respect for the growing season yields superior wines. Other Oregon opportunities included roles as the assistant winemaker for Hamacher wines and co-winemaker for Trisaetum.

From my wine adventures in New Zealand to my Viticulture and Enology degree in Beaune - France, these experiences gave me a better understanding for the different interpretations of Pinot Noir and Chardonnay while solidifying my goal of becoming a winemaker.

Suzor Wines honors my French heritage through my grandmother's maiden name. I work hard to create wines that resonate with the childhood memories of visiting my grandparents in the Loire Valley. I remain focused on making wines that convey our story, with a nod to French tradition.

Enjoy!
